

ABSTRACT

A hose for conveying fluid comprises a corrugated metal tube and outer layer circumscribing the internal corrugated metal tube. A securing structure assembled on an end portion of a hose includes a socket fitting 5 securely compressed or swaged to a hose body so as to extend longitudinally of the hose a distance beyond an insertion end of an insert pipe integral on a connecting part.